問題V 次の文章について設問に答えよ。解答番号は

41 ~ 49

Many people decide to rebuild or redecorate their homes at some point, and sometimes the job takes longer than expected. Very rarely, however, does it take as long as one house in the United States. The Winchester house, owned 41 Sarah Winchester in San Jose, California, was rebuilt twenty-four hours a day for over thirty-eight years!

The remarkable story of the Winchester house began in 1862 when Sarah Pardee of Boston married William Winchester, the heir¹ to the Winchester fortune. William was the son of Oliver Winchester, who owned the rights to the Winchester Rifle, one 42 the most popular weapons of the time.

In 1866, Sarah and William had a daughter, Annie, who died from a disease as a baby. Sarah was overcome with grief at the death of her child, and took many years to recover. Then, tragedy struck Sarah again when William died of a disease in 1881. Although she inherited $20 million in savings, and an income of a thousand dollars a day, Sarah was again overcome with grief, and on the advice of a friend visited a fortune-teller. The fortune-teller told her that her 43 luck was being caused by the ghosts of all the people who had been killed by the Winchester Rifle. The fortune-teller also told her to sell her home and "head towards the setting sun." Sarah Winchester took the fortune-teller's advice and moved west to California, 44 she found the perfect house for her.

The 45 house was a six-room farmhouse. As soon as she arrived, Sarah started taking the fortune-teller's second piece of advice. She was told never to 46 building her house. Using the money her husband had left her, she employed over twenty builders who worked night and day on the house. Every morning, Sarah would meet the foreman<sup>2</sup> of the builders and 47 him hand-drawn building plans for the day. This went on until Sarah's death in 1921.

Today, the house has over 160 rooms, 13 bathrooms, 47 fireplaces, 40 staircases, and three elevators. The reason why Sarah Winchester rebuilt isn't entirely known. Many people think it was to confuse the many ghosts who are said to haunt the house. 48 think that Sarah was simply insane<sup>3</sup>. Either way, Winchester House is now a major tourist attraction and brings in thousands of visitors every year.
