In the past, people used to live in the country. Today, however, more and more of us live in cities. These crowded urban areas are often called concrete jungles. Here, there is  or no contact with nature.

City life can be exciting because there are so many things to do. It can also be stressful because we have to focus on so many things—work, school and our daily routine. All this  tires our brain.

Today doctors and psychologists are talking a lot about the healing power<sup>1</sup> of nature. According to them, we should walk in the park, admire the trees, or  to the birds. Perhaps we could spend a day in the countryside.

This contact with nature is good for our health. We can relax, and forget the hectic<sup>2</sup> rhythm of our daily lives. Then our stress seems to .

Nature does wonders for the body and the brain. For example, a peaceful mountain could be the  place for meditating<sup>3</sup> or doing yoga. The fresh air of the forest can help purify<sup>4</sup> our lungs.

To get enough vitamin D, we have to spend some time—of course, not too much—in the sun. We ought to swim in the ocean  salt water cleans our skin. We should take off our shoes, and walk on a sandy beach.

If we really want to feel the healing power of nature, then we must go to a Japanese onsen. In my opinion, it should be on everybody's "must-do" list.

問題VI 次の文章について設問に答えよ。解答番号は  ~

The decision to become a pet owner is not to be taken lightly. Owning a pet is a great responsibility. Most animals that make good pets, such as cats and dogs, rely on their owners to provide food, shelter, healthcare, and even love.  because their owners were not really ready to be a pet owner when they adopted the animal. For one thing, many pet owners do not realize how much time it takes, both long- and short-term, to care for a pet.

Being a pet owner means making a long-term promise. [ A ] In fact, a pet owner should expect to be responsible for the pet until it dies. Some dogs, especially smaller ones, may live for ten years or more, and cats may live even longer. [ B ] People who want to adopt a dog or cat should first try to imagine their lives over the next fifteen years and make sure they really want to be responsible for the animal for that long. [ C ] For example, a pet owner may get married or move to a new city or a small apartment. Sadly, many pet owners do not think of the future when they choose to get a pet and sometimes abandon the pet when such changes occur. [ D ]

Pet owners are also responsible for their pet on a daily basis. Pets need to be fed every day, more often for some pets. A dog may need to be walked three or four times a day, while cats may need to be let out of the house in the morning and let back in at night. Equally important is daily love and affection<sup>1</sup>. For the pet owner, these duties are not a choice, and they cannot be delayed. It does not matter if the pet owner is tired, sick, or busy with other responsibilities. The pet's daily needs must be met. Many pets become hungry or lonely because their owners leave the house early in the morning and do not return until late at night.

Clearly, having a pet takes a huge amount of time, both daily and over the long-term. However, if a person is prepared to accept this responsibility, a pet can be a wonderful friend. A well-loved pet will never be angry with its owner, or abandon him or her.
